

CURRICULUM VITAE – VINCENZO GERBI

full Professor of Oenology (scientific disciplinary sector "Food Science and Technology" AGR / 15) at the Department of Agricultural, Forestry and Food Sciences of the University of Turin.

The research topics most have mainly concerned oenology. He is the author of 431 publications, including 214 articles in journals (119 on ISI journals). He is in charge of the experimental cellar of the University of Turin.

He carries out an intense activity of dissemination of scientific results to technicians in the wine sector, producer associations and tasters.

He is the holder of the Oenology course of the degree course in Viticulture and Oenology, Enography of the inter-university master's degree course in Viticultural and Oenological Sciences.

From the academic year 2006-07 to 2018-19 he was director of the II level inter-faculty Master in Science and Technology of Food and Human Nutrition - Michele Ferrero.

From 2012 to 2018 he was Deputy Director of the Department with responsibility for teaching; in this capacity until 2014 he was part of the Quality Presidium of the University of Turin.

He is the contact person for the decentralized office of the Department of Agricultural, Forestry and Food Sciences of Asti.

From 2012 to 2015 he was president of SISTAI (Italian Society of Food Science and Technology).

From November 2013 to February 2017 he was president of AISSA (Italian Association of Agricultural Scientific Societies).

In 2019 he was awarded the Angelo Betti prize, Meritorious in agriculture - Grand CANGRANDE medal.